

CALL FOR PAPERS

2023 PCS Review

The 2023 issue of the Philippines Communication Society Review opens its call for researchers and practitioners to contribute articles and critical commentaries on communication and media in the Philippines. This year, the PCS Review is an open issue and welcomes submissions from the broad field of communication and media studies including those from the areas of community communication, rural communication, participatory communication, communication for development (C4D) and social change; and community media and alternative media studies in the era of social media and the changing media landscape.

Research article and critical essay submissions are welcome! We highly encourage emerging scholars, researchers, and practitioners to consider submitting to PCS Review.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

We welcome submissions written in English or Filipino. Research articles must have a minimum of 6,000 words and must not exceed 12,000 words (including references). Critical essays must have a minimum of 3,000 words and a maximum of 5,000 words.

Submissions must be accompanied by a 250 to 300-word abstract written in English and must include five (5) keywords. Papers written in Filipino must submit the abstract in Filipino and its English translation.

All submissions must adhere to the American Psychological Association (APA) Style.
